project: the antwerp based art collective l'anverre works with a wide variety of creative media like glass sculpture, photography, engraving, painting and furniture design. it is difficult to honour the poetic quality of their delicate work within the generally overwhelming, rigid and square environment of exhibition grounds. the initial concept for this project is to design a lightweight bohemian backpack, ready to go for fast, easy and cheap participation in exhibitions all over the world. the proposed 60 square metres womb-like textile exhibition stand carefully embraces the handmade objects it contains.
