

light

eer

notary sabbe
office john pawson

john pawson: "the site for the new notary's office lies on one side of the town square, facing the church. notary's office, church and nearby town hall together form an axis whose architectural prominence reflects the importance of each in the life of blankenberge."

kreon 2003

concept: in order to underline the minimalistic architecture, the lighting scenography is based solely on the use of deeply recessed lighting fittings. two independent lighting schemes were developed: indirect lighting to emphasize the architectural features (concrete bench and staircase) and direct lighting for the task and representation functions (by means of discrete down lighters).

project	notary sabbe
function	office
city	blankenberge
country	belgium
designer	john pawson
year	2003

eer architectural design
info@eerddesign.com